GEO. OSGOOD, CIVIL WAR VETERAN, DIES

George B. Osgood, 70, died Thursday evening at his home in the town of Rock after one week's illness from a stroke of apoplexy.

Born April 1, 1850 in Adams Center, N. Y., he came west with his parents at the age of three years and settled on the farm which, with the exception of a few years, was his home until death. He married Helen Ferris September 18, 1878, and in 1916 they moved to Janesville to make their home. Mrs. Osgood died there a year later.

Four children were born to them, the oldest, Clark, a soldier in the Spanish-American war, died in 1893 at the age of 19. The three children who survive are: Mrs. Fred Isaac, Los Angeles, Cal.; John, with whom he made his home in the town of Rock; and Mrs. Roy Currier, this city. Four grandchildren also survive: Evelyn and Lillian Isaac, and David and Robert Currier.

Mr. Osgood was a veteran of the Civil war having enlisted in the 47th Wisconsin regiment. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the Baptist church here. Rev. R. O. Pierson officiating. Interment will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

"REPENT BEFORE YOU PERISH," DOW URGES

"Except ye repent ye shall all likewise perish" was the subject of the text last night at the Methodist church, speaking on this subject, "God's Most Startling Warning to Sin." He drew a vivid picture of the various classes which heard Christ speak, and then drove home the message saying: "The men who crucified Christ are no more rejected of God than some of you who today turn away from him in your self-righteousness."

I say to you, respectable people who are rejecting Christ as your Lord will perish the same as those who live in open crime and vice. We usually go to the haunts of iniquity, and picture some depraved man or woman when we desire to show what the grace of God can do for a human soul, and we build our rescue missions down in the slums of the poor, but I tell you Christ would say these need him more than those who live on the boulevard, wear fine clothes, and fare sumptuously every day. The fact of the case is Christ delivered his most scathing warnings to the lowest favored classes. Nowhere did he call a poor man or woman however sinful, a hypocrite, and nowhere did he rebuke a fallen man where did he rebuke a fallen man with burning indignation, and tell them they were on their way to perdition.

EVERYTHING READY FOR BIG CARNIVAL

The Samson Employees' association carnival, which starts at the new foundry tomorrow night and continues on Monday and Tuesday nights of next week, is going to be held in an atmosphere of complete gaiety. The foundry space was cleaned and scrubbed last night by a crowd of 25 men to get it ready for decorations. Tonight more than 200 people, including a large number of girls, will start work on getting things all ready in the booths and hanging the decorations.

Directions as to how to get the foundry are as follows: For autos and pedestrians—Center avenue and cross Monterey bridge; take the first turn to the left after crossing the bridge and continue to the Cherry street entrance to the foundry. Searchlights will make the entrance. This is the shortest way. For trolley passengers—Free buses will pick up passengers Monday by trolley at the end of the street car line and take them to the foundry. A complete list of prices at the carnival will be found on page 11 of today's Gazette.

CITY GETS $20,000. IN INCOME TAXES

Janesville today received the long awaited income tax money, payment on which has been held up for nearly a year because of a court battle. County Treasurer A. M. Church paid to City Treasurer W. J. Lennartz, $20,000, the city's share of the $63,812 delayed income tax paid the county by 25 shareholders in the Janesville Machine company. The money will help to run the city for the balance of the year as the general fund is running low.

THE ONE AMERICAN SOCIETY.
Sale of memberships in the Red Cross have not been large in Janesville. The drive for new members and for enlistment of former members has been far from what was reasonably to be expected. The Roll Call has found many absentees. There is cause for this if not reason. We have many such calls. There are drives and drives, one after another. America has been feeding and caring for a great part of the world. Away in the interior of China is a famine. Not thousands, but above a million people are dying of starvation. An American relief expedition is there now saving the living from death. Armenia, miserable and wretched, has seen its only hope in the relief given by the Near East funds from America. Polish and Jewish children in Central and Eastern Europe have been saved from hunger death by American aid.
We are called on daily to give and give. From the outbreak of the war we have been asked, implored, solicited, over and over again, for a hundred or more worthy causes. The response has been great. Millions of dollars have been subscribed and paid for aid to a stricken world and a score of crushed and bleeding nations have been rescued from a bitter end. Then there are other drives having to do with local, state and national cases, most of them highly organized, working through churches and civilian societies, to which other millions have been contributed.
"Dollar Mad America," as we have been called in derision and criticism by impetuous Europeans, no longer deserves that term. Originally given us in opprobrium. We have shown that we are a sentimental lot of people, our hearts on our sleeves. Nothing is more in evidence than the new drive now under way to aid the German children. We take little notice that the German government since the abdication of the Kaiser has paid to him some $50,000,000. We do not say, "Why should we aid German children when the man responsible for the wreck of the world and the very starvation we are to relieve, is pampered, and the German people permit their own children to starve while giving of their tax money to let the butcher Hoeselmann, live in ease and comfort." While we know all this we freely give to the children who are victims of both the former Kaiser and the system which has been followed by Germany since the war.
But—and here is the rub—the one great institution for relief of the stricken world, always at the scene of disaster, is our own American Red Cross. If there is to be discrimination in giving it would seem that the Red Cross has the first place and that the Voice of Humanity calling the Roll for the one society, truly American, should be heard above all others. It is the only organization that has carried out ray of sunlight into the darkest, mad, anarchy Russia. It has a world program, but does not overlook its own native land. Shall we respond to its call?

THE GREAT ERROR IN PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT LAWS.
Nearly all the troubles that have come from enforcement of the Volstead law have grown out of the bonded warehouses filled with whiskey at the time the constitutional amendment went into effect. Its value computed on the price of blind liquor ran close to a billion dollars. Naturally with this supply and a possibility of getting it out of bond on orders from prohibition agents or officers of the Internal Revenue department has made it not only an incentive to crime, but the greatest menace to law enforcement.
At first the idea that the government should buy and take possession of this stock of whiskey was met with strenuous objection, but now it seems that it would have been the wisest course to have pursued. Under government ownership, the distillers and rectifiers who would have been paid as the liquor was taken out for such uses as are permitted under the law, the temptation to criminal acts and enormous profits would have been removed. It would have been impossible to have taken out thousands of gallons of this whiskey on forged orders connived at by corrupt agents. There is still some millions of gallons of whiskey in warehouse stocks, and as long as it lasts will be a breeder of crime. The wood alcohol and "White Mule" concoctions of poison sold to fools who will drink them, will eventually correct itself, but bonded whiskey has another appeal to quite another class. So long as there is any of it left in the warehouses there will be desperate attempts to violate the enforcement acts.

PRO-GERMAN VICTORY IN GREECE.
The winning of the election in Greece by the pro-German element in that nation will be of good cheer to William Hohenzollern in his comfortable exile in Holland. His sister, Sophie, is the wife of Constantine, deposed and exiled king, and is given as the main cause of the Greek troubles prior to the entrance of Greece into the war on the allied side. By the result of that war and the masterly statesmanship and diplomacy of Venizelos, Greece has been given almost as much additional territory as she had before entering the war, and extended her influence far beyond her former borders. Had she gone in as Constantine wished, on the side and behalf of Germany, it is likely that all that she had would have been stripped from her, as was the case with Austria and largely the result for Hungary.

Greece, however, has forgotten all that and prefers, it would seem, the linsel of royalty and the court of the banished, intriguing king, to peace, plenty and a people's rule. If there is a Recreation of the Saints

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN
Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 19.—Very seldom do you find church authorities in the entertainment business, running playhouses and amusement parks, hiring chorus girls and handling contracts for roller coasters and merry-go-rounds. At least, these things are not included in the average preacher's duties. The Mormon church, however, because in Salt Lake City the Mormons have demonstrated that church elders may handle such affairs with special skill.
Nearly all of the recreation facilities here are owned and managed by the Latter Day Saints. The Salt Lake City Theater is operated by the Mormon Church, which is not at all opposed to large and musical comedies; most of the dance halls of the city are provided by it; and Saltair, the local summer resort located on the Great Salt Lake, is under Mormon management.

The various dances which have from time to time occupied the scandalized attention of other religious sects, have never created a stir in Salt Lake City. They are taken as a matter of course, and dancing is held to be a worthy pursuit of man, pleasing in the sight of the Lord. At least three nights a week dances are held in connection with the Mormon houses of worship; and the seal of churchly approval bestowed upon them by an opening prayer.
It is greatly to the credit of the Saints that they have never been narrow-minded on the subject of recreation. Brigham Young always held that it was as essential to human existence as food and air, and hence deserved the highest consideration. The first public buildings to be erected in Salt Lake City by the Mormons were a large playhouse designed for the purpose of well as for theatrical performances, and confiscated the little playhouse for a private school for his numerous children. Doubtless, they too, in time, outgrew its meager dimensions.

The Salt Lake Theater, which resembles an old wartime wood-cut of World's Theatre in Washington, is one of the most interesting institutions in the city. It is the second-oldest theater in America, the oldest being the Walnut Street Theatre in Philadelphia. Although it receives all the latest hits from New York, it belongs obviously to the early period of the American drama. You feel, when watching about its shabby old galleries, that it must and the modern drama rather bewildering and that its ancient times often sigh for the old days of Booth and Barrett.
Down in its cellar are many relics of this period; for at a time when the fashionable churches of the East were refusing even to bury theatrical casts, the Mormons were producing everything from Shakespeare to popular burlesque. These relics, which some day are to be gathered together and housed in an appropriate museum, are now carelessly scattered about the various underground property rooms, having dirt floors and ceilings of wooden rafters.

From such a dusty compartment, the present-day property man, who conducted us about the theater, drew forth a wooden cradle of the American colonial period.
"This," he said, "is the cradle in which Maudie Adams made her debut on the stage. It was just by chance she got the part. The cradle was at the last minute the property man could not locate the usual rag-doll, and the play could not proceed without at least the suggestion of a baby. Someone ran into the green-room and grabbed Maudie from her mother's arms and carried her on. They say she acted admirably, keeping perfectly quiet, while the leading lady moaned over her and everything."

The Salt Lake Theater seems to have been Brigham Young's pet hobby. According to the property man, he used it somewhat as a private club, spending a great deal of his time there. He had a secret entrance all his own, the use of which our guide did not make quite clear, and even today the old cellar contains a collection of his furniture, including one of his numerous bedsteads, made with rawhide nails; an old-fashioned organ, which was dragged across the plains with the first band of pioneers; and some old horseshoe chairs, and an ancient spinning wheel, treasured because it was the property of Joseph Smith's mother.

"The theater was ventilated in those days," explained the property man, "through a wooden passage connected with the street, which was designed by Brigham Young. The only improvement made over the old is in the material used, which is tin instead of wood."
The first performance held in the theater was "The Pride of the Market," presented on March 3, 1832. Since then, it has been visited by the best talent in the country, from Booth and Barrett down to the present crop of Broadway stars. The older actors, especially, and the old playhouses, according to the property man, when Henry Miller was informed not long ago that it was likely to be torn down to make room for a newer, larger playhouse, he declared with tears in his eyes that rather than see this happen he would contribute one month's salary every year to its upkeep. But this is the property man's story, and in all fairness to our readers it must be stated that he was a most imaginative property man.

Brigham Young was not the only high official of the church to take a special interest in the theater. For, as all the showmen of the city had trained as actors in the first small playhouse, he had conceived a great liking for the drama. Just as the right top stage box was nearly always occupied by Young, for whom it was reserved, so the under box was usually filled with the several church apostles. One of the bishops, Joseph Lindsey, loved the theater so well that he requested to be seated by the standard of our metropolitan theaters today, this playhouse seems rather dingy, cramped and small. The Mormon leaders recognize this and realize that a new, larger house is needed to accommodate the younger generation, which is not so much interested in historical atmosphere as in the latest stage hits. So already plans for a new theater have been drawn up, to be built, according to the property man, in connection with a great hotel that is to eclipse in size and magnificence even the present Hotel Utah of the city.

Saltair, the other great amusement enterprise of the Mormons, is not so historic, but in many ways is also unique. It is located on the Great Salt Lake and is reached by a decrepit electric line, which makes the 12 miles from the city at a jaunty and dangerous clip, considering its feeble condition. On the way you pass through part of the fertile Salt Lake Valley and then into an expanse of salt, where great mounds of the mineral are hauled for shipment.
All the whirligigs and dizzy drops and other sensational apparatus provided by most amusement parks are gathered together on a large concrete pavilion at Saltair, surrounding which is the lake. Roller-coasters, flying boats, shooting galleries, skating rinks, old mills and a large dance hall, contribute to the fun and dizzy activity of the place. At one end is the bathing beach, where the pier of the lake has been fenced in like a huge, square tank.

serious attempt to bring Constantine back France has made a threat of war, and should that come we may again be plunged into a conflict that will be stern and bloody. In the meantime the League of Nations, sitting in Geneva, seems to be as entirely impotent as a factor in setting this latest Eastern mess.

Mr. Blaine has 43 elegant jobs to give out. He ought to be able to find that number of North Dakota patriots willing to accept these places in Wisconsin.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST
STATE PRIDE.
I heard a stranger boasting of the glories of his state.
He held that California is the greatest of the great.
The chief seat beside him lived somewhere in Illinois.
And he boasted of her riches and her comports and her joys.
But while I listened to them make their native splendors known,
I'd have sworn that they were talking of the state I call my own.

Nebraska or Dakota, Florida or Tennessee, Or Washington, or Maryland—wherever You'll find the land is peopled with devoted hearts and true
Who love the state they live in and the old Red, White and Blue,
And you'll find the distant stranger in a proud, exultant tone
Boasts about the state he lives in as you boast about your own.

There are charms this country over, there are joys in every state,
Here are forty-eight divisions and each one of them is great.
And I like the eyes that sparkle and the touch of honest pride
And the favor of the people whosoever they abide.
Who rejoice in their possessions—for by such a love is shown
That each one of us is faithful to the home he calls his own.

In Michigan or Kansas, in Idaho or Maine,
The hearts of men are beating to the self-gone loyal strain;
The love of all that's lovely sets the eyes of all aglow
And the old flag laughs to hear us as it looks on us below.
For it proves we are united as of home we proudly brag—
One great country-loving people underneath the Starry Flag.

Who's Who Today

GEORGE SUTHERLAND.
SENATOR GEORGE SUTHERLAND of Utah is mentioned as one of the men sure to be chosen by President-elect Harding for his cabinet. The attorney generalship or secretaryship of the navy will be his, it is reported. Sutherland is a naturalized citizen, his birth place being Buckingham, England. He was born March 25, 1862. He came to the United States at an early age, however, and completed his education in Utah and at the University of Michigan. He was awarded degrees at that institution and at Columbia. He was admitted to the bar in 1883 and practiced law in Salt Lake City until 1893. He was a member of the Fifty-seventh congress (1901-03), but declined the renomination. He was twice elected United States senator, his last term ending in 1917. He has been a delegate to several republican national conventions.

Ventures in Common Sense

By ED. HOWE, of Atchison.
Increase in marriage rests with the men; every single woman in the world would be married off in a month if proper proposals were made to her. But thousands of men capable of supporting families are hesitating about marriage because of the growing extravagance of women. There is a type of women universally recognized. The first class marriages will increase in proportion. The best marriage missionary is the wife who pleases a husband so that he boasts about her and invites his bachelor friends to his home. But this is the property man's story, and in all fairness to our readers it must be stated that he was a most imaginative property man.

The world cannot be ruled by Love. Love is so generous it makes a promise it cannot fulfill; it gives worlds when it is as poor as a church.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

The Beginning of Tuberculosis.
The beginning of tuberculosis is the incipient stage or beginning? With many people it is the chest cough, the loss of weight, the loss of appetite. The onset of this very common disease is wayward in that respect. Like insanity, it is much more common in the young than in the old. It is not fear or suspect, it is not a disease of the other way, tuberculosis, like insanity, rarely happens to him who fears he is developing it.

There are several characteristic modes of onset of tuberculosis which are familiar to physicians with an intelligent clientele. By intelligent clientele I mean patients with sense enough to consult the doctor in the beginning of health impairment instead of waiting until they feel convinced they are going to be disabled or die. Fifty or more years ago precocious patients had that call in the doctor only when the illness became serious enough to frighten, everybody—fifty years ago, a pretty hopeless condition. Today as many as 25 per cent of the ill have enough sense to seek medical aid immediately when health becomes impaired; and today tuberculosis is one of the most curable of all chronic diseases, and the cure is all in the treatment and care, not in any specific.

The most frequent mode of onset is with bronchitis. The following is what the physician calls a "neglected cold." The bronchitis does not get entirely well in the course of two or three weeks; some slight trouble persists, and the careful physician, if he has the opportunity to see the patient—discovers evidence of tuberculosis. He can detect the disease only by examining the naked chest repeatedly. But a careful physician does not pretend to examine the chest through the clothing.

A second familiar mode of onset of tuberculosis is with an attack of pleurisy. This is a pleurisy; what seems to be a simple pleurisy, usually dry, and the occurrence of pleurisy is always suggestive of beginning tuberculosis.

Q. Did the Levantine carry cows to provide fresh milk for the soldiers? N. K. A.
The Navy department says that while some of the transports did carry cows for this purpose, the Levantine, while it was in the service of this country, did not.

Q. Do porcupines really shoot their quills at enemies? A.
The quills of a porcupine are loosely inserted in the skin, and may, on being violently shaken, become detached—a circumstance which may lead to the purely fabulous statement that the animal possessed the power of actually ejecting its quills like arrows or darts at an enemy.

Q. Where is Dannemora Prison and what class of prisoners are confined there? M. G. A.

Owing to the fact that the United States has no diplomatic relations with Germany, there is no German representative to whom you could apply.

Q. What is the significance of the six stars on the soldiers' Victory Medal? M. R. A.

Joe Letters of Tessie and Joe

JOE:

My cousin Grace brought her husband over last night. You have ever since I gave Grace that pickle dish for a wedding present without her making the slightest use of it as far as the pickles are concerned. It is to view in any way, shape or form anywhere in the house, why the only deep affection I've had for her has been one of animosity.

Still, I flatter myself that I'm broad minded enough not to give anybody the benefit of the doubt as long as there's a chance that they're right and I'm wrong, so last night I says to her, "Well, Grace," I says, "are you still using that pickle dish?"

"Yes, still," says Grace. Well now Joe that might pass mustard all right in black and white print, but the accented way she said it gave me the impression that she meant "still" in the sense of "under cover" or in other words "so still that you can't notice it."

Can you imagine that Joe? And I can say with a perfectly empty conscience that I've seen worse pickle dishes than the one I sent her.

You know her husband is in the insurance business, and I remember you warning me not to be betrayed into letting him sell me a policy. Well several times he made underground overtures to open the subject of life insurance, but by using all my tact I saved the situation. Once he signed sick-like and says, "All, well," he says, "even for the luckiest of us this is a short life."

"Oh, I don't know," I says, "three scores and ten and so on down," I says, and went on to something else. And after awhile he sighs again and says, "Just to think, we're here today and gone tomorrow."

"It's a matter of taste," I says, and went on to something else.

And in that way Joe the evening passed real pleasantly without me compromising myself in the slightest. Lovingly, TESSIE.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been keeping company with a gentleman for ten years. We think a great deal of each other. We are both over thirty years old. I do everything in my power to make him happy, and never tire of doing favors for him and never consider myself first. I am told by my family I am not at all selfish.

I have opportunities to go with other gentlemen, but refrain from doing so, as I treat him in all ways as I want him to treat me. And considering that he is a man, I will say he does very nicely most of the time, but there is one fault he has that hurts me very deeply.

Where he is employed there are several girls and he has a car. After closing hours he will very often take one of the girls home and after doing so several times he will tell me about it. Then later on he will start with a new one.

I feel that he should not do that. It is only natural I would be jealous. When I hear these tales I feel that I cannot refrain from watching him and when I catch him in the act, tell him how mean I consider him and have nothing more to do with him.

Since knowing this I am almost tempted to go with a man who has a very fine car and is quite anxious to take me out. You can see by his actions he will cause me to do things that may sever our love for each other.

I am very strong in my likes and dislikes and being old enough have good sense. I am also old enough to be very jealous. Even though we have gone together so long he does not seem to know just what is due me and what not and when I take him to task regarding girls whom he takes home he acts and talks as though I were in the wrong. He says he must be nice to them all. That is true, but I think he goes too far and my nature will not endure it.

Please tell me if I am right or wrong? I stand ready to be shown when in error.

DISTRESSED.

THERE is a big difference between Calumet and all other Baking Powders.

First—you see it in the cost. Calumet is sold at a moderate price.

Then—you observe it in use. Calumet has more than the usual leavening strength, therefore less is required.

Next—you notice it in raising quality—in the evenness—lightness and texture of your bakings. They look better—finer grained.

Finally—what a difference in the taste. There is a deliciousness, a goodness that can be had in no other manner. Biscuits, pies, cakes, muffins, doughnuts—never were so tasty—so all satisfying.

And then there is the satisfaction of knowing that Calumet is made in the World's largest, best equipped and cleanest Baking Powder Factories.

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 oz. Some baking powders come in 12 oz. cans instead of 16 oz. cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

Perfected for Washing Machines

Curly Green Chips
Containing Naphtha

Something new in soap—new and vastly better! Naphtha soap, in chip form, the first, as far as we know, ever put on the market containing Naphtha and olive oil in addition—the perfected cleansing combination.

This new soap—Ajax Naphtha Chips—is pure soap. It contains no adulterants or impurities.

Because of this purity, it won't fade colors or harm fabrics. The Naphtha and soap combination makes a lather which cleanses without rubbing.

Because they are pure soap and all soap, they go much farther. The use of Ajax is economy.

Ajax Naphtha Chips are offered, after months of experiment, as the finally perfected washing machine soap.

The thin, curly, green wafer-like chip dissolves to the last particle. It produces a thick, profuse, stiff lather which stands up until you are through.

This lather cleanses, most thoroughly, the average soiled clothes. No soaking, no rubbing, no boiling, are required.

It makes the action of your washing machine thoroughly efficient. You can do a week's washing almost without wetting your hands.

Get a package of Ajax Naphtha Chips before next wash day. It is wasted effort and wasted time to continue using soap which necessitates extra work.

Your dealer has them, will gladly supply them. They come in a big economy package—containing five times as much as most packages.

ASK CITY TO BUY NEW AMBULANCE

Members of Health Board See Need of Vehicle for Contagious Cases.

A resolution by Joseph M. Connors, calling upon the council to buy a lightweight ambulance for transportation of patients afflicted with contagious and communicable diseases, was unanimously adopted by the city board of health in session in the municipal court room at the city hall last night. The secretary was instructed to get the resolution before the council at its next regular meeting, November 23, and to see that the urgent need of such a vehicle is brought out clearly at that time by Dr. Fred

Welch, city health officer, and members of the board. Previous to adoption of this resolution, the board passed a motion to give property owners having river toilets until June 1, 1921, to change them so as to comply with city and state rulings. Ten affected property owners appeared to ask this extension of time.

City Is Liable. That the city is laying itself open to damage suits by not furnishing a vehicle for contagious cases, was one of the points emphasized in the one hour discussion. Relative to a patient who should die because of exposure by the slipshod methods employed in getting him to Detention hospital, would have a clear case of damages against the city, it was brought out by Dr. Welch.

"If we save but one life, then we shall have more than paid for the ambulance," declared H. H. Bliss, president of the board. "I don't believe this issue should be side-stepped any longer."

Several sad instances of suffering and endangered lives were cited by Dr. Welch and Dr. Vincent Koch to show the absolute necessity of providing an ambulance at an early date. They told of a typhoid fever patient, in eight months' pregnancy, who had to be laid in the back seat of a touring car with her legs hanging over the door, because no other means of transportation could be found to take her to the hospital. Although typhoid is declared by physicians to be not a contagious disease, nevertheless Chief Morrissey hesitated about allowing the police patrol-ambulance and his men to be exposed to it. In cases of all kinds, except contagious diseases, the police stand ready at all times to cooperate with the health department, said Chief Morrissey in his statement to the board.

Had to Walk to Hospital. Dr. Welch told of a diphtheria patient last winter who had to be transported in a sedan because no ambulance was available. The attending physician had put it up to Dr. Welch to get the patient to Detention hospital in some way. The road from Sharon street to the hospital being impassable, it was necessary for the patient, a 6-year-old boy, to walk from there to the hospital. Since that time, the council has brought about a repair of the road.

"If an epidemic of small pox or some other contagious disease should break out in Janesville this winter, how could we handle the cases?" queried Dr. Welch. "It is time we had some means of transportation. In the pastion of 20 doctors presented to the council several weeks ago, this was requested."

Would Post List. It was suggested by Dr. Koch that a list be posted in the police station containing names of diseases, victims of which should not be allowed to ride in the police ambulance. In this way the present vehicle will be kept free from contagion. Upon the chief's statement that many patients are carried to the hospital without the attending physician, it was emphasized that in the future a physician be required to accompany each patient.

A commendable spirit of cooperation between the police and health departments was apparent at the meeting last night. Property owners affected by the ruling against river toilets also showed a spirit typical of a new and better Janesville.

MORE GAS NOW RESULT OF REPAIRS ON COMPANY'S TANKS

There is more gas in the tanks of the New Gas Light company today than there has been for months, according to the statement of the superintendent, I. F. Wortendyke. This morning the brick lining has been placed and the public with unanimous accord followed the request of the gas company to reduce consumption for two days. "It was a wonderful exhibition of the value of newspaper publicity," said Mr. Wortendyke this morning. "The message we gave to the public met immediate response. There was great conservation of gas on the two days we were at work putting in the new lining of the gas tanks and as a result we will be able to supply more gas and give the consumers better service. The advertising in the Gazette certainly shows that the public reads it—not a few, but I should say all of the people."

NEWARK SCHOOL TO GET PHONOGRAPH

Profit of more than $100 was made at a plate social and entertainment held at the district 5 school of the town of Newark several evenings ago. TAXABLE INCOME OF U. S. MAKES INCREASE [Associated Press.] Washington—Despite the loss of 74 members of the country's million a year class, the taxable income of the United States increased in 1918 by over $2,272,000,000 as compared with 1917, according to the income statistics issued by the bureau of internal revenue.

NEED $10,000 FOR FARM PRODUCTS CO.

Plans for the organization of the Farm Products company cannot be completed until an additional $10,000 is raised, it was learned at a joint meeting of the Farm Products company and the board of directors of the farm bureau held Wednesday night in the court house.

A total of $15,000 worth of stock has already been sold and until the additional stock can be sold the organization cannot be completed. The date for the next meeting of the company was set for December 17, and it is thought that all stock will have been subscribed by that time.

TO RAISE FUNDS. A plate social will be held at the district 6 school of the town of Turtle next Wednesday evening, for the purpose of raising funds with which to purchase improvements for the school. The entertainment is being planned by Miss Charlotte Merriman, teacher.

There is nothing absolutely new. A flash of biblical fame rode in a horseless chariot.

WILL ASK $500,000 FOR TRADE SCHOOLS

Thirty-one pamphlets were given out last week by the Information Bureau of the Janesville Gazette, Washington, D. C., of which Frederick Haskins is director. Seven of these were for the League of Nations covenant. Other booklets issued: Common Colds, 44; Removal of Stains, 12; President's Career, 12; School Child's Health, 4; political booklets, 2; Soviet versus American government, 2; and Care of Food in the Home, 1.

One question was asked of the Bureau. A resident of Janesville wanted to know if there was any remedy to free a gas heater using hot water from the line which accumulates other than changing to soft water. He was told to communicate with a New York company which manufactures several water softeners which can be used with a gas heater.

DISARMAMENT IS LEAGUE JOB

The big war debt itself. Similarly if the United States could feel free to reduce her own armament because of agreement with other nations, including Japan, the estimated total of four billion dollars needed by our government in taxes from the American people could be materially reduced.

Stability Rests on Paying

The general feeling here is that on the political status of Europe depends her ability to pay external debts as well as to produce goods for export around the world so that international exchange will be in equilibrium. Great Britain, France, and America owe large sums of money and who have not been able to pay interest to the United States, are laying aside huge sums of money for military and naval defense although there is faith in the ultimate ability of the league of nations to prevent war. Europe of nations will not limit their armaments until all nations, including the United States, enter into the agreement. The unwillingness of the United States to enter the league of nations and the controversy about it in the United States has for the moment prevented an understanding about disarmament but irrespective of whether President-elect Harding decides that he wants America to join a league of nations, he has pledged himself to work for disarmament. The league of nations has a special commission at work on the question of disarmament but it is doubtful whether the movement will get much momentum until President-elect Harding throws the moral force of America behind it.

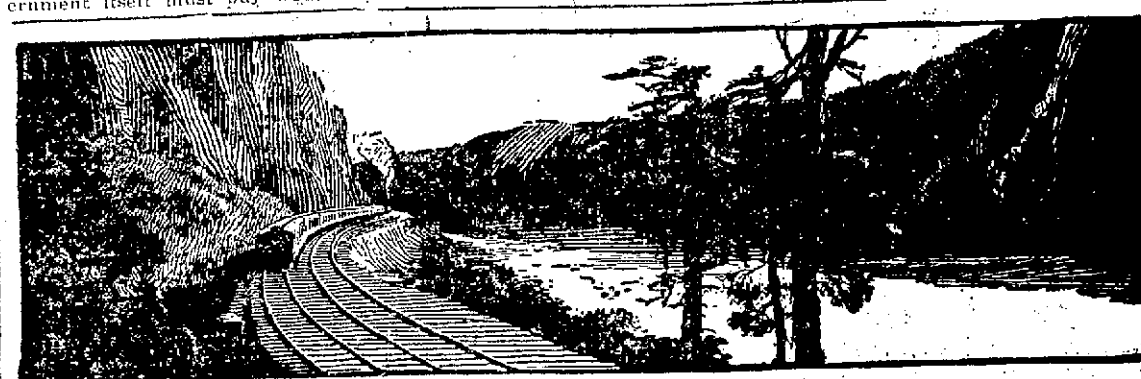

Depends on World

Practically every tax expert in Washington can work out a formula whereby taxes would be reduced and Liberty bonds restored to par if the entire world agree not to build any extensive armaments but simply to maintain sufficient for national defense. Secretary Houston estimated, for instance, that the American government would need four billion of dollars in revenue during the coming year. There is a good deal of talk about extravagance in government but when that four billion estimate is analyzed his figures are likely to be considered conservative. Of the four billion at least a billion must be set aside to pay the American people the interest on the Liberty bonds they hold. Another billion will have been spent on guarantees to the railroads and other assistance provided for by the republican congress during the last session in order to help the railroads out of the plight they were in when taken over by the government during the war. This leaves two billion for other purposes. Pensions, war risk insurance, maintenance of the military and naval establishments and other expenditures together with the billions that it used to cost to run the American government before 1914 consumes the remaining two billions. Moreover, the high cost of commodities which the government itself must buy would ordinarily have increased the government budget beyond the single billion even if there were no expenses incident to the war.

Cutting Down Expenses

The impression is that there will be much pruning of expenditures during the coming year but that it cannot affect the main items like the sums guaranteed to the railroads, the amounts to be spent for the soldiers and sailors and the billion that must be paid in interest to Liberty bond holders. It is the general feeling too that the government will be doing well if it can cut its expenditures to four billion and raise that amount of revenue. Nobody knows just what the loss will be on the revenue from excess profits taxes. The slump in business will mean considerable reduction in revenue. The prospect is that there will be an insistence on a cut in army and navy appropriations and things incident to war making. Should Europe be able to do the same thing, the outlook for lower taxes according to officials here would be bright indeed.

ALLIES UNITE IN MEXICAN TREATY IT IS ALLEGED

Mexico City, Nov. 19.—The text of a treaty alleged to have been signed in Washington in May by the United States, Great Britain and France, outlining their course of action in Mexico and South America was published Thursday by La Vanguardia. The important clauses of the treaty according to the newspaper, provided for the recognition of the Monroe doctrine by Great Britain and France and priority for the United States rights in Mexico. England agreed not to permit Japan to acquire territory in Central or South America or on the Pacific ocean.

Extensive provisions were made for the development of the Tampico oil fields for the benefit of the three nations. La Vanguardia asserts, even to the extent of furnishing troops in case such action should be necessary to provide a continuous flow of oil. The United States is going to the priority of English rights to such fuel supplies.
In case Japan objects, the United States and British fleets are to sail against the Orientals," says the newspaper's version of the alleged party. "The United States may acquire control of the Mexican railroads, and, if necessary, extend its territorial expansion to the Panama canal."

Elaborate provisions are made in the treaty. La Vanguardia asserts, for controlling imports and in the event that either the United States or Great Britain goes to war with Japan neither of them shall aid
Japan financially.

Hydro-Airplane Believed Lost Off Florida Is Safe

Havana, Nov. 19.—Fears that hydro-airplane Santa Marie, which left Key West yesterday afternoon for this city, had been lost, were dissipated today when reports were received that the machine had landed at Santa Cruz, a small port 15 miles from here. The captain, pilot and mechanic and six passengers carried by the plane were reported safe.

ORFORDVILLE

(By Gazette Correspondent.)
Orfordville—The regular meeting of the Ladies Missionary society of the Lutheran church was held Thursday afternoon at the church parlors. They were entertained by Madames G. O. Roen, C. O. On-gard, and M. L. Onsgard. There was good attendance. George Peterson, Bloomington Prairie, is visiting the family of his brother, O. A. Peterson. It is many years since Mr. Petersen went west. He has only occasionally made a return visit—San Egvald, Janesville, was in the village Wednesday. Chaplain Gustav Stearn, Milwaukee, will deliver an address at the Lutheran church on the evening of Nov. 25. Chaplain Stearn was with the boys in the first line trenches and in much of the heaviest of the fighting and will give an interesting talk. A car of hard coal was received at one of the local yards Thursday, coming directly from the mines. The freight charges cost the company more than the coal cost at the mine.
Bertha Brubaken who has been spending the past year with her sister at Oslo, Minn., has returned home. Bert Baker, Iowa, is visiting his sisters, Mrs. Tom Corbett and Mrs. James Mowe. Mr. Baker left Orfordville when a small boy, more than 20 years ago.

ern states, opened here today with a number of southern governors and state superintendents of public instruction in attendance.

200 patterns of the Season's Choicest Cloths, in Worsteds, both finished and unfinished; Serges, Cassimere and Cheviots, and all of the very best quality.
Instead of taking 10% or 20% off my prices, I am giving ly a 30% cut; for instance:

100 HEAR STRONG PLEA FOR MISSIONS

A powerful address on the topic, "Missions Are Essential to Civilization," was given by Dr. Edwin R. Dow, before a meeting of the City Federation of Missions yesterday afternoon at the Methodist church. He declared his conviction that there is no true example of civilization unless the higher classes are educated, humane and moral, and the masses are free and enlightened, and this state of things has only come about where the Bible has become the rule of life. He described China, Japan and India, as countries where the gospel sunbeams is just dawning, and also showed how in Hawaii and Samoa the people have been converted from cannibalism to Christianity by the missionaries in one generation. He made an appeal for cooperation until hearts should be so stirred that a constant line of mission ships should be kept on its way across the seas. He said his own father has been in missionary labor, both home and foreign, for 55 years.

Two songs were given by Mrs. J. Frank Murtagh, H. O. Echols sang "My Father's House" and "Devotions were led by Miss Lottie Skinner. The business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. George Jacobs, and the secretary, Mrs. George Allen, read the minutes of the previous meetings.

Supper was served in the dining room at 6 o'clock in cafeteria style to about 100 people. Mrs. J. P. Ketchum being in charge of the menu, and Mrs. E. L. Hoeking of the serving room. The following women from different churches assisted in the supper arrangements: Methodist, Mrs. M. A. Gentry and Mrs. Traver; Baptist, Mrs. N. Hield and Mrs. L. G. Catchpole; Christian, Mrs. C. K. Gillespie; Mrs. G. Haney; United Brethren, Mrs. E. McDaniels and Mrs. H. Claxton; Presbyterian, Mrs. Elizabeth Patterson and Miss Louise Hansen; Congregational, Mrs. R. Reynolds and Mrs. E. C. Ransom.

To Gas Consumers:

I wish to thank you for so effectively complying with my request to use as little gas as possible yesterday and today.

We have our machine repaired and at no time had any worry regarding sufficient gas supply.

Instead of the ordinary fire brick, we put in bricks made of Carborundum, which, though more expensive, we hope will last six months.

We Are Again in Shape to Supply All the Gas You Need

I wish again to say, I thank you for enabling me to safely get a job done, which without your co-operation would have put me in a critical position.

I. F. WORTENDYKE, Manager.
